POETRY.

THE BRICTISC ROAT,

It has floated away from the brack and hay Out of sight of lower and town, An empty and a battered boat And that beat wreth not go down.
The morning role on the waters wide;
And the night fell cold and dark.
Yet ever on with the wind and the Dritted that battered bark.

The sail had past from its broken mass, And its pointed pride was dim; The saft seawerd clung round its hows, Which had been so smap and trim, Which had been so smap and trim, Where were the merry mates and free Who had gone with it silon; We never learned; bu, the world's wide

Hath lives like that drifting boats.

Lives that in carry storms have lost Lives that in early storms made and Anchor and sail and oar,
And never expect on Lettle's shore,
Cha come to moorings more;
Out of whose loveless, therebes theys
The hope and the heart have gones—
Goal ships go down in stermy seas, and the me! Good ships go down in stormy sea But these empty boats drift on !

They had bearts to sail in the wind's eye once; They had hands to reef and steer,

With a strength that would not stop to chance, And a faith that know no fear; But the years were long and the storms were strong.
And the rainbow flag was furled.
And they that leunched for the abies, have

The rumor that Chief Justice Chase with insist that at least thirty days shall be given the President to prepare for his trial is totally unfounded.

Secretary Seward has left for Auburn. It is understood that, after exhausting other points, Attorney General Stanbery will state that he has not yet secured the neces sary counsel, and will ask for a delay of twenty days. There will not be any time ANDREW J. SMITH, Vice-Presh, fixed for the trial before Saturday. The GREGOR B. HOROSHON, Secretary. Butler article of impeachment meets with increased favor from the Impeschment Managers. It is now though that the trial will turn principally upon it, as the testimony taken with reference to the violation of the Tenure of Office bill shows that the President always maintained that he was so placed as to be compelled to brook it or ignore he Constitution.
